Nonprofit chamber to recognize boards of the year

Wichita Business Journal - by Josh Heck

The Nonprofit Chamber of Service is recognizing three local organizations as boards of the year.

The list includes the Greater Wichita YMCA, Breakthrough Club of Sedgwick County and the Alzheimer's Association.

Local nonprofit boards of directors were evaluated on length of board members' tenure, selection process, fiscal management procedures, strategic planning and having stringent oversight of an executive director's performance.

The three boards will be recognized Friday during the nonprofit chamber's annual board university, which is designed to identify and train people for nonprofit service.

The event also will feature keynote speaker Betty Johnson of Betty Johnson Associates, an Indiana-based nonprofit consulting company, and various training sessions.

The board university starts at 8:30 a.m. at the Wichita Marriot Hotel.

Boards of three Wichita-area nonprofit organizations have been named "Boards of the Year" by the Nonprofit Chamber of Kansas.

The boards for Greater Wichita YMCA, Breakthrough Club of Sedgwick County and the central and western Kansas chapter of the Alzheimer's Association were selected.

A chamber committee made the choices based on time of service by board members, how members are chosen, fiscal management procedures, strategic planning and policies for performance review of executive directors.

The three boards will be honored Friday during an annual board training session at the Wichita Marriott hotel.
